

Domestic and Family Violence webinar

For general practitioners, allied health professionals, and nurses working in the northern Queensland region

Mackay Hospital and Health Service (MHHS), together with Northern Queensland Primary Health Network (NQPHN) invite health professionals to a 90-minute interactive webinar.

Domestic and Family Violence (DFV) is a major health and welfare issue in Australia, occurring across all socioeconomic and demographic groups, predominantly affecting women and children.

Presented by:

- Mackay Base Hospital Domestic and Family Violence Workforce Specialist / Social Worker Advanced Sandi Winner.
- Mount Isa Hospital Director of Emergency Medical Training and Senior Medical Officer Dr Julia De Boos.

This webinar will provide participants with:

- Up-to-date information on the health effects of domestic and family violence, including non-lethal strangulation and best practice recommendations for medical professionals around these presentations
- Current legislation and imminent changes in relation to coercive control
- Q&A opportunity

This webinar will be recorded and made available to participants after the webinar.
