

Telehealth Skills ECHO is a series of free, interactive virtual mentoring sessions open to healthcare workers who are using or considering implementing telehealth.

These monthly 1-hour sessions address a range of topics related to the delivery of telehealth – in a range of healthcare settings. Session includes a 10 minute presentation, a case study and open Q+A for participants.

THURSDAY 10TH APRIL 1-2PM AEST

Engaging with ACCHO's - Telehealth benefits for First Nations Peoples

Presented by: Prof Anthony Smith

Centre for Online Health, University of Queensland

Scan the QR code to register or to learn more visit uqecho.org/telehealthskills-echo

Join us for these sessions on the 2nd Thursday of the Month at 1pm AEST.

