

Ear health courses

EOI: For clinical staff working within Aboriginal Medical Services or general practices

Enhance your expertise in ear health!

Northern Queensland Primary Health Network is offering clinical staff working within Aboriginal Medical Services or general practices in the northern Queensland region the opportunity to expand their knowledge and skills through funded* ear health courses.

Ear Wax Removal course: Irrigation

The irrigation course will develop your knowledge and skills to safely and effectively manage wax (cerumen) and the irrigation (ear syringing) process including risks, safety of practice, complications, follow up and referral recommendations.

Ear Wax Removal course: Microsuction

This microsuction course empowers health professionals with the required knowledge and skills to remove ear wax safely from the ear canal as part of wax and foreign body removal.

The microsuction course is an approved RACGP activity.

Expressions of interest for both workshops close 4pm, Friday 31 January 2025.

**Funded places for these courses are limited, with numbers capped at 12 individuals per workshop.*
