

Advanced Life Support training

Expression of interest for GPs working in primary care practice

Northern Queensland Primary Health Network (NQPHN) invites expressions of interest (EOIs) for free Advanced Life Support training from general practitioners (GPs) working in primary care practice in the northern Queensland region.

Advanced Life Support training will teach the skills and knowledge to manage a patient in the immediate period of a crisis. Training will include recognition, assessment, and immediate management of a deteriorating patient.

The Advanced Life Support Program is based on ANZCOR Guidelines and best practice principles.

Available places are limited. To secure your place, register your expression of interest by 4pm, Friday 19 April 2024.

Please note: Advanced Life Support will be funded by NQPHN in the third quarter of 2024, dependent on the EOI's response.
